BC's festivals coordinate, combine
and produce a universal product...
Many Voices—Digital Storytelling, a digital media archive and learning repository.

Historically, the festivals foster student participation in thinking and creating texts or products based on themes. Series of events generate the critical and creative thinking skills necessary to college and career success.

This joint venture culminates in a product of digital storytelling, including student submissions in music, film, art, and writing related to event themes. The collaboration motivates students to think critically about the world and the future, building a sense of community that translates into retention and completion.
