

The Sound of Student Success: Incorporating Podcasts into the Classroom

Peter D'Ettore, Assistant Professor of English / Developmental Writing Coordinator (South Campus)

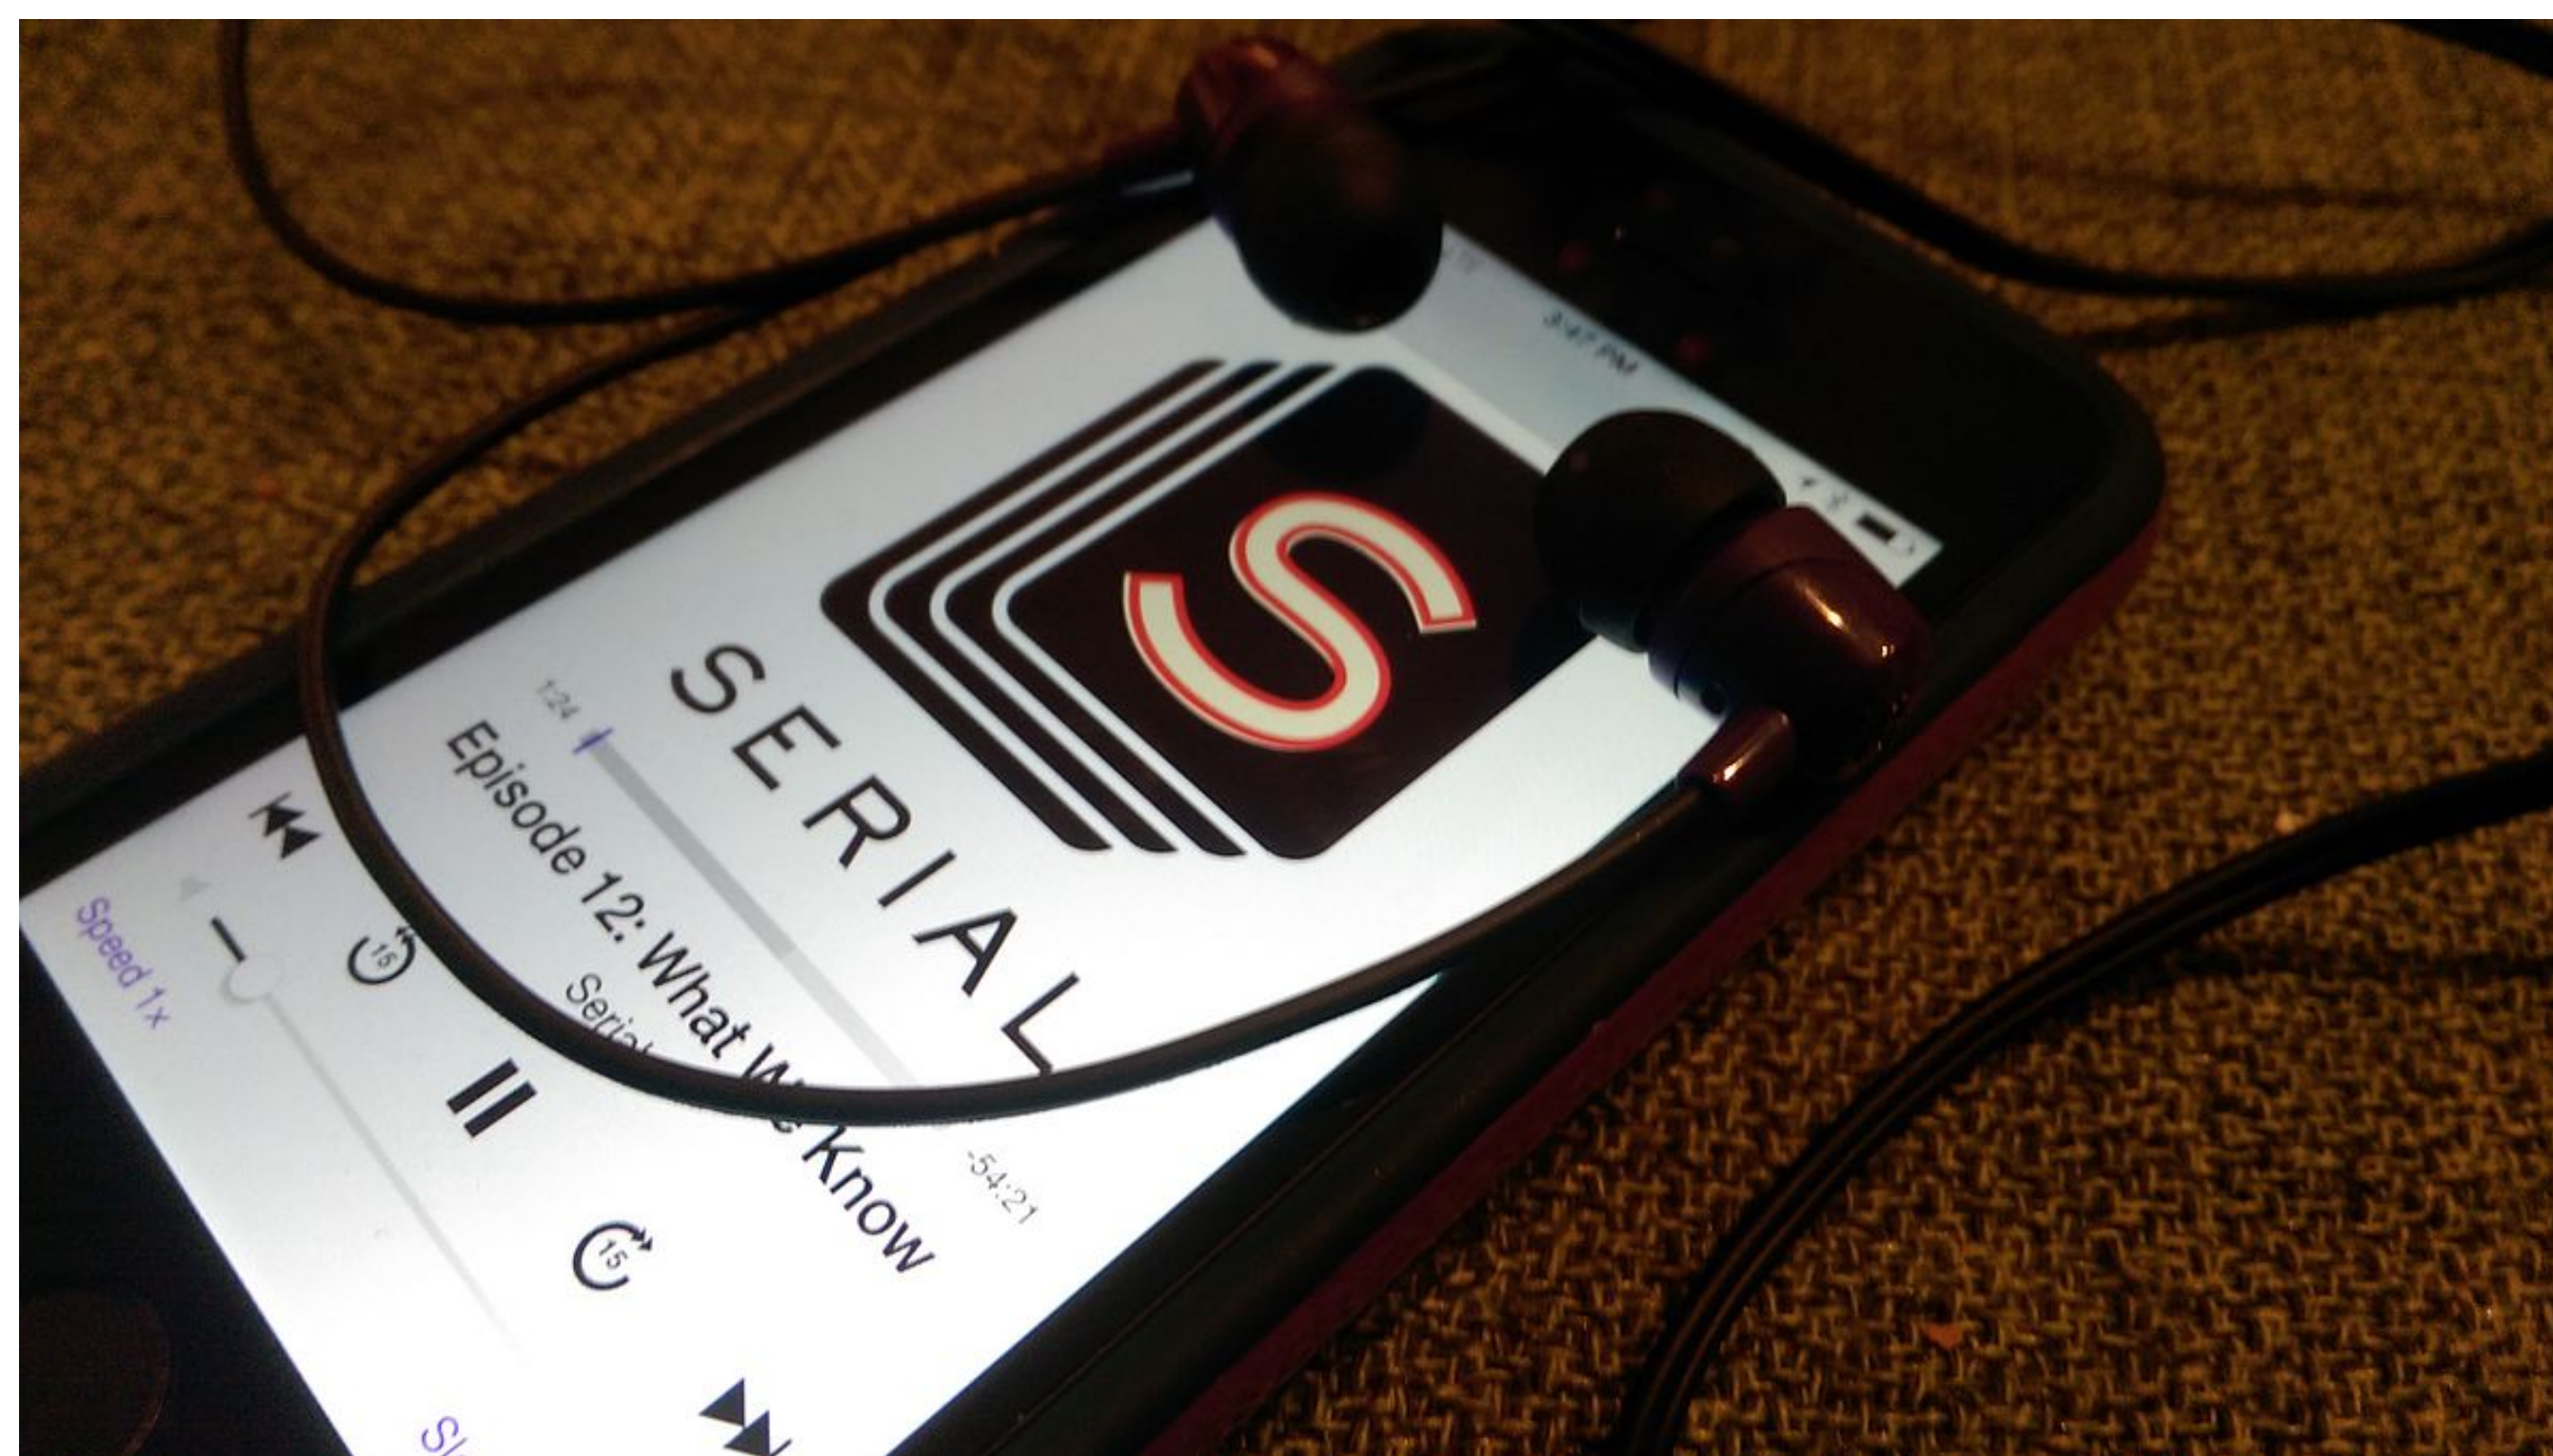

What Is a Podcast?

According to Merriam-Webster, a podcast is "a program (as of music or talk) made available in digital format for automatic download over the Internet."

Why Use Podcasts in the Classroom?

- Alternatives to traditional textbooks
- Promote critical thinking & listening comprehension
- Appeal to auditory learners
- Transcripts available for additional learning styles
- No or low cost

Workshops on Using Podcasts in the Classroom

Faculty and staff from fields as diverse as English, Aviation, Math, and Physical Science attended workshops that explored the opportunities and benefits of utilizing podcasts in the BC classroom.

The Sound of Student Success:
Incorporating Podcasts into the College Classroom

Faculty are invited to attend sessions that will explore the potential offered by podcasts, a technology that not only appeals to alternative learning styles but can also be adapted to fit almost any class and/or assignment. In addition to receiving professional development credit, attendees will collaborate with their colleagues to create take-aways that will help them to begin utilizing podcasts in their teaching.
